ANOTHER WAY TO FIGHT THE BOLL WEEVIL

By L. G. Biggers

A few days ago a gentleman from Kentucky dropped into my office and inquired as to the prospect of organizing a co-operative creamery among the farmers and business men at Dothan. I had never considered the proposition and introduced him to some gentlemen who are interested in cattle growing who I thought could give the desired information. After consulting with these gentlemen, the Kentuckian decided that the people of Dothan were not progressive enough for him to undertake the organization of the creamery and to go to some other point in the state. I notice from the Advertiser that he puts his proposition up to the business men of Greenville, Butler county and they accepted it and that enterprising community is to have a creamery.

The above incident set me to investigating, and my conclusion are that we should have taken the man for up here and put it through.

That the creamery industry is a powerful aid in the fight against the boll weevil is beyond question, just as it is of assistance to the farmer under all conditions and it should be studied seriously by our community just now when the life of our town and surrounding country demands new industries.

There are many sections where this is the mainstay of prosperous farmers merchants and bankers where climatic and soil conditions are far less favorable for the production of milk at a low cost than ours, and the wonder is that we have not taken this matter up long since.

The creamery industry, first up on the production of good milk at a low cost, second, upon the manufacture of high class products and, third, upon the marketing of this product to the best advantage.

In order to get the raw material the farmer must arrange to maintain a herd of cows in excess of his personal requirements, giving a good flow of milk throughout the year and in order to do this, he must have assured him an outlet for his milk at all times and a guarantee of a steady return from his herd. In the nature of things almost any farmer can produce a relatively small surplus of milk, but none of them can afford to manufacture or market the product on his own account. Each step in the process is a specialty and should be put into the care of people specially fitted to the work.

With the raw material assured the creamery begins its work and attends to the manufacturing and marketing. Equipped with the proper appliances and the demand for such a product always exists and its marketing becomes an easy matter with time.

In a general way the creamery must depend upon the farmer for the raw material, must assure him of receiving the current price for his milk with cash settlements monthly and must assist him to a good understanding of what is necessary to produce good milk at a low cost, and, of equal importance, must show him how to utilize not only the cream but the skim milk in the raising of pigs and the saving and care of the stable manure for fertilizer.

The primary necessity in the production of good milk at a low cost is good cheap feed and pure water. Both of these can be counted upon in our country where the climatic conditions are such that the dairy herd can have green pastures nearly if not entirely, throughout the year and where ensilage crops are easily and cheaply raised to supplement this and reduce the feed bill to a minimum by utilizing the feed crops to best advantage. This will result in maintaining a good flow of milk at all seasons of the year and the effect of raising more

SATURDAY, JUNE 21 1913

When the land is broken sufficiently deep a good rain lasts a long time with the farmers.

It is the wire grass counties of Alabama that are gaining in population faster than any other section

---

George Fitch the funny man is a member of the Illinois legislature which is funnier

---

There is nothing to it. Dothan which pays its preachers fairly well, has had less rain than any section of Houston county.

John Wallace, Jr., of course is not getting his share of the newspaper talk now since the others have gone to working the field

After all, it isn't the record that boy makes at college that helps him along the best, but the record after he has come out of college

---

—"I'm tired of life."
"That being the case, go out to California, and shout Banzai!" Birmingham Age-Herald

That boy who got a whipping the other day which caused a fire that cost the community $100 000 will have something to point to in the future, when his parents get in after him

---

Some of the dreaded things vanish like a shadow when you get close to them

Occasionally a mighty sorry boy turns out to make a good citizen

---

When a county convict is put on the county roads to work he knows he is benefitting his community, but when he is sent to some other section he loses interest in his work and is not apt to make a good hand

---

Sometimes when you do a thing on the impulse it is right but as a rule, it is best to study over the matter a little, and try to look at the other side a little

---

The kind of a fire we had the other morning in Dothan is calculated to give the firemen some good training. They can figure that it is important to plan the best attack when there is several places where the water is needed

---

No paper ever issued in Alabama was gotten up more attractive than the Age-Herald's Silver Anniversary of a few days ago. It takes an issue like that to tell the story of the growth of a city like Birmingham, and that paper told it well

---

The Advertiser has at last referred to the O'Neal administration as economical, and one that is likely to go down in history along with all s... Pity but what Gov O'Neal was in the race for re-election so the paper could give him its unstinted support.

It doesn't matter how well a moving picture actor plays his part if he must happen to an accident and get killed, and is picked up and carried any distance, the dead actor fails to act well then. He is liable to stand on his feet, or holding to the other fellows with his hands unlike dead folks.

Nearly all people who are educated at all, are educated only in spots. When one is turned out of the high schools, education is only partially taken, and the same thing about college graduates. It takes a good deal of machine work, of polishing and hammering to get the places in the boy educated that need it most.

REMEMBER THIS BOLL WEEVIL ADVICE

It made his first appearance [illegible] years ago.

Whatever literature that is sent out by the department of agriculture is bound to be correct. It has not been gathered in a haphazard way and is worth following statements to the contrary notwithstanding.

The fact that the farmers are raising cotton where the weevil has been for many years is evidence that they know how to make it in spite of him, but it takes work and lots of it. The lands which have to be fertilized cannot bring the profit from the crop that is found in Texas and Louisiana however.

YESTERDAYS

Rendezvous in Finisterre!

I passed a purple Autumn Dawn
Where sabots clattered down the stree
And lads were little and maids were sweet,
(We little recked that time would fleet!)
And life and love were in the air

In gray and pink the low roofed town
Right to the harbor mouth ran down
The church with quaint decrepit grace
Fronted the ancient marketplace
Where first I saw her flower face
Jeanne's face which never learnt to frown

Though life to alien cities brings
My steps that picture lives and sings
The girl in medieval dress
Her head erect through joy and stress
All dignity and loveliness
A peasant with the soul of kings

How I recall that sailor's son
Pierre whom all men called Le Brun
And how I hailed him when he Came with the fishes from the sea
(For was not Jeanne the world to me?)
And ended what was scarce begun

It mattered much it mattered naught
The story stops where stories ought
And still throughout the world I trust
Youth turn to youth and gold to rust
And dust returns again to dust—
Love win what money never bought
